the 1990s, the number of people with a diagnosis of schizophrenia has increased in the United Kingdom (Meltzer 1997). The prevalence of schizophrenia in the United Kingdom is estimated to be 1.2% (Meltzer 1997).

There is a growing awareness of the need to improve the lives of people with mental health problems. The United Kingdom has a number of government departments and agencies that are responsible for the provision of mental health services. The Department of Health is responsible for the overall policy and funding of mental health services. The Department of Social Security is responsible for the provision of social security benefits to people with mental health problems. The Department of the Environment is responsible for the provision of housing and social services to people with mental health problems.

The Department of Health has a number of initiatives aimed at improving the lives of people with mental health problems. The Mental Health Act 1983 was amended in 1995 to give people with mental health problems more rights. The Mental Health Act 1995 gave people with mental health problems the right to refuse treatment. The Mental Health Act 1995 also gave people with mental health problems the right to be consulted about their treatment.

The Department of Social Security has a number of initiatives aimed at improving the lives of people with mental health problems. The Social Security Act 1998 gave people with mental health problems the right to be consulted about their treatment. The Social Security Act 1998 also gave people with mental health problems the right to refuse treatment.

The Department of the Environment has a number of initiatives aimed at improving the lives of people with mental health problems. The Housing Act 1996 gave people with mental health problems the right to be consulted about their treatment. The Housing Act 1996 also gave people with mental health problems the right to refuse treatment.

It's a real place
With real people.
People who are
Willing to change
As time demands.
A place where
Progress is the key word.
Old places have become Obsolete while
New buildings have sprung up
Everywhere
For the needs of
An ever-expanding Population.

ACUTE CARE FULL SERVICE HOSPITAL FOR SOUTH LAKE COUNTY FAMILIES

ACTION?

Well, it's been going on for years.
Winning teams and losing teams
Exploded with determination to win.
Good clubs and weak clubs
Longed for a new year full of spirit
And drive.
Of course we had bad times too.
Lectures made a short hour
Last forever as the same
Voice droned on and on.
Homework consumed precious
Hours of out-of-school time.
Apathy? That was in the past.

RIGHT The computer invented by man to provide solutions makes problems of its own. BELOW RIGHT: God reaches out and gives life unto his own image, Adam. BELOW—We are ever more fearful of a rapidly changing world.

Now
1300 individuals
Have drawn closer
We have Tried to look ahead
To close the gap
Between us and the complex
World beyond
We are reaching out
Reaching to grasp
Knowledge and understanding
So that we may contribute
Our hopes to a questioning world
We are more aggressive
With progress
Than ever before
We are more determined
To be on top. We were on top.
And in 1972 . . .

WE RATED HIGH!!

LONG, HOT SUMMER OF '71

June dismissal of school became synonymous with work as students labored for much-needed college cash. Some students, after a week's respite, found themselves in summer school earning valuable credits.

Lazing, laughing, sinning, and swimming at the Dunes passed many idle hours. Traveling was a favorite pastime with trips to nearby as well as to faraway places. College towns were meeting places where diligent students converged for workshops.

Ominous clouds hung menacingly low over the annual Lake County Fair late in August while students flocked there to profit during their last few precious days of summer. Fairgoers, impervious to the threatening weather, established an attendance record well over the quarter million mark.

SOMEHOW IT DIDN'T SEEM QUITE THE SAME

The 1971 Homecoming festivities began with a tug o' war, the Booster Club's substitution for the defunct bonfire. The first round was a tough battle between the Sophomores and Juniors. The victorious Juniors and the Seniors then attacked the rope. Unable to withstand the strain of bulging muscles, the rope broke, calling the second round a draw.

When everyone had recovered, the traditional snake dance began winding eastward on Joliet Street and found its way around the square. The exhausted participants stumbled back to school and composed themselves for the upcoming Powder Puff game. At the end of four quarters, the Sanitation Service was victorious with a score of 6-0 over the Junior Mints.

The almost non-existent Homecoming parade consisted of three class floats, fourteen club cars, and our very own Marching Bulldog band. The game started with a bang against Griffith with each team battling for yardage. The climax of the evening came when the fighting Bulldogs beat Griffith by a score of 18-15. The first game of the season as well as the first Homecoming game in over four years had been won.

Music for "Out In The Country," the Homecoming dance, was provided by Jacob Grimm. The conclusion of Homecoming 1971 came when Queen Char Colyer crowned Senior tackle Bill Smack as Mr. Football.

CONCLUSION... was this year really any different?

If it's Thursday, this must be China. President Nixon, Chinese Premier Zhou Enlai, and Pat Nixon feed goldfish in a park at Hangchow.

From ice-laden boughs and snow flurries drifting from the North common to every winter, Sunshiners and Lettermen adapted the theme, Love, Snow, and Christmas for the annual semi-formal turnout. Amid floating hearts and candy canes, Lettermen president Tom Kennedy crowned the dancing couples' favorite, Lori Whitehead, as queen.

To continue the spirit, student council members diverted students' attention in the halls between classes to the ceilings dripping with crepe paper, strung with garland, and supported by a tinselled Christmas tree.

This inspiration was short-lived, however, as thoughts reverted to Christmas vacation and all the associated activities of caroling, skiing snow-crusted slopes, skating, tobogganing, and for the jet-set at heart, vacationing in Florida. The return to school and freshly-waxed floors after the two-week break became in many ways a melodramatic contrast to the joyful holiday of just a few days gone by. Classrooms quieted, students murmured muted whispers in the library, and books opened more often all in preparation for the inevitable discipline of semester finals . . . The spell was broken with the strident ringing of the eleven o'clock bell as January grads raced from classes, down the halls, and out of school, students no more.

STUDENTS FORSAKE FIRE- SIDE TO CHALLENGE FROSTY SLOPES

COUPLES CHERISH EVERY MOMENT OF PROM WEEKEND

Long, flowered gowns or halter dresses and tuxes with pastel ruffled shirts donned by each guy and gal were popular attire for the 1972 prom, "Cherish." Even though it rained, the night was not spoiled for dates who projected a romantic air to Salvatorian Hall. Juniors and seniors danced to the music of the Moonlighters to all hours of the night. After Prom King Brian Meyer and Queen Bonnie Matthews were crowned, couples went their own ways to midnight brunches, suppers, or early breakfasts.

Some lucky couples got home at three in the morning, took a short nap, and prepared for the next day, which included picnic trips to the Dunes, to Turkey Run, or to Indiana Beach. Groups took forest trails, rode horses, and had a good time trying to eat soggy picnic lunches.

Prom-goers could be spotted Monday, or not spotted at all, with dark circles around the eyes and with weary bodies and memories of the great weekend.

STUDENTS DELVE INTO MOTHBALLS FOR SPRING SHORTS AND SANDALS

Take sixty pounds of hamburger, several jars of pickles, numerous boxes of potato chips, gallons of pop, and you have the making of the senior picnic. A 1:9 chaperone-student ratio didn't inhibit seniors from enjoying their year-end party as they played baseball and barbecued their hamburgers.

Shaking off winter doldrums, bleary-eyed spring lovers took to the paths in swarms of pedal-pushing bike enthusiasts toward some happy place for baseball, tennis, or golf.

Hot pants, cut-offs, and sandals exposed embarrassing white skin ready for a new spring tan.

SENIORS ATTAIN RECOGNITION DURING AWARDS NIGHT

In an effort to be different this year, the school administration scheduled Honors Day for evening presentation instead of the usual presentation during school. Students disliked the new arrangement in more ways than one. They did not have the occasion to cut class, they had to dress up all over again for the gala event, and the night lacked a certain schmaltz of excitement and surprise. Nevertheless, the awards were presented and everybody was happy.

Mike Toman and Brian Whitehead received recognition as finalists in the National Merit Scholarship test. Commended scholars were Pam Blanco, Judy Fitzpatrick, Steve Childress, Karen Harter, Marcia Mount, Mike Savich, and Linda Treadway. Marcia was given a scholarship by the American Legion Auxiliary. The American Association of University Women named Judy as the recipient of their scholarship, while Mary Jo Garnier walked away with the Tri Kappa sorority scholarship. Women of the Moose presented Sheila Hardesty with a scholarship, and Mike Savich won one from the Kiwanis Club. Jim Kacmar and Bonnie Matthews were recognized for their character and leadership qualities by the I DARE YOU! committee of the American Youth Foundation. Jim Kacmar won the science department award, and Brian Whitehead won the math department award. Craig Baner and Jim Kacmar received the Letterman's Club Blanket. Judy Fitzpatrick, Mike Savich, and Mike Toman were recognized as valedictorians of the class of 1972 while Pam Blanco was recognized as salutatorian.

OUTSIDE CEREMONIES CONCLUDE SENIOR YEAR

To the traditional strains of "Pomp and Circumstance," 395 seniors marched to the football field for the annual commencement exercises. The graduation ceremonies, the first to be conducted outdoors since 1957, were hampered by strong winds and threatening rains. Small palm trees set up for decoration on the sodded field had to be anchored down to avoid being upset.

As 7:30 rolled around, anxious seniors scanned the skies and kept their fingers crossed. Commencement speaker Diane Holm, Olympic speed-skating gold-medalist instilled in the graduates the art of positive thinking, confidence, and self-determination.

After filing across the stage to receive his diploma, each graduate made his way to the cafeteria to secure his class pictures and perform the final obligation of returning caps and gowns.

SCHOOL WORLD

The mind's eye opens.
Ready to take up, to comprehend
A new idea. We are caught
Up by curiosity into a changing
World. We seek to find answers
To better understand our lives
And the lives of others.

We search for solutions to
Problems of our present times
And speculate about the future.
Through our endeavors we also
Find the motivation to prod
Ourselves into action. We

Release our stored-up energy
Into motion. Motion that causes
Changes. Changes in our lives,
In others' lives, in the world.

We are the most involved, the
Most interested, the most Concerned generation in the History of the world.
WE RATE HIGH.

AUTOMATION STRIKES C PHS

A new space-saving machine, the Reader Printer, which will eventually solve the problem of the cramped conditions in the magazine files of the library, was installed in the library. This machine uses microfilm to project magazine pages on a screen directly overhead. For a small price it can also make copies of the information needed.

The Executive I, another space-saving machine which helps a student in choosing a college or career was donated by the State Career Guidance Center. By inserting either a career or a college card into the slot, information on various occupations and colleges is illustrated. These cards provide education requirements, aptitude levels, campus statistics, and possible futures in a certain field. Like the Reader Printer, duplicate copies of the information can be made.

After a two-year project of planning and budgeting, a video tape machine was purchased. It was found extremely beneficial to many areas, such as social studies, drama, English, and even band. Due to popular demand, plans were made to purchase additional machines.

RIGHT—Measuring the angle of the refracted ray, Tobey Holloway and Bill Fathke investigate the properties of a convex lens. BELOW—At the University of Chicago's annual science openhouse, physics student Mark Kaldahl inspects a moon rock.

Seniors had a chance to try out their walking shoes in the quest for greater understanding in the field of physics. Five seniors, along with Mr. Saylor, traveled to the University of Chicago for a science openhouse, where they attended lectures and demonstrations involving basic research in the fields of math, physics, and chemistry.

Junior and Senior chemistry students found themselves baffled by the terminology a beginning scientist must grasp. Students sat open-mouthed as words such as radicals, solubility, acid, molality, and ionization were thrown at them. The memorization of chemical symbols and types of common reactions also played an important role in success.

STUDENTS APPLY MATHEMATICAL PRINCIPLES TO EVERYDAY PROBLEMS

Thinking in abstract terms, geometry students used their imaginations to expound theories. Using inductive and deductive reasoning, they tested those theories with previously supported laws, theorems, and postulates. Later, construction of triangles, circles, and squares, emphasizing theories of space and dimension, enhanced students' drafting dexterity. Exasperating concepts of loci often taunted students as they attempted to discover their obscure solutions. Teachers emphasized practical application of geometry for subsequent use in mathematics. In Algebra II, teachers stressed beginning with the correct formula to methodically solve a problem. Students then utilized trigonometry to discover pragmatical solutions to everyday problems.

RIGHT—Biology student Alberta Alexander examines bread mold for an experiment. BELOW—Kim Carden bravely withstands the pain inflicted upon her for a blood test.

BIOLOGY STUDENTS UNDERGO BLOOD TESTS

Formaldehyde and scupulas were major tools as sophomores desperately tried to understand the biological world. Discussions ranging from types of blood to the ever-controversial subject of evolution vs. creation were overheard coming from the three science rooms.

The Biology Club, besides furthering its interest in the subject, decided to delve into a service project for the good of the community. Under the direction of sponsor Mr. Charles Bowman, members collected canned goods to provide food for the needy at Christmas time.

If you were to walk into a typing or shorthand class during a time test, you would immediately sense an air of tenseness. Eyes are glued to books . . . fingers strike keys. Faster - faster. Carriages fly . . . bells ring. The teacher calls time. Students deeply exhale. It is essential for these students to be fast and accurate.

Typing is not the only skill of a business machines student. He learns to manipulate a variety of machines. He uses a ten-key adding machine first. When that is mastered, he learns to run the electronic calculator. At the end of the course, this student will have used many of the machines used in offices.

BELOW—Jerry Carr tries to explain proportions to Sue Rogers. RIGHT—Connie Vezzeou contemplates the Frider Rotary Calculator before pushing buttons.

Figures, invoices, checks, and receipts—students must know how to complete all types of forms. Bookkeeping and business math teach students the art of "paper work." After being exposed to all the office situations, graduates from the business curriculum are ready for anything.

EXPERIENCE IN BIG BUSINESS PROVIDED BY AT & T

Enterprising economics students tried their hands at the stock market with an extravagant amount of imaginary cash. After experiencing several ups and downs of the unpredictable market, a resumé of their losses or profits was made.

As another extra project, E-economics classes constructed a mini-corporation known as Amalgamated Tinkle and Twinkle. After selling stock to raise needed funds and settling a slight labor dispute, actual production on the "Bulldog Blinkers" was begun. Students were rewarded for their hard work by the extra stock returns. For Mrs. Dunn, who retired after twelve years of teaching to pursue other interests, the clearance of the debris from her room was reward enough.

With the passage of the 26th Amendment, 18-year-olds were faced with a new responsibility—electing a President. To prepare themselves, civics classes delved into the sticky world of politics.

Junior history classes spent a lot of time completing a three-year project which consisted of making an original history of Crown Point. Political cartoons that characterized popular world issues were drawn by some students while others relived the days of the Old West with a square dance.

Strawberry incense burned. Dark lights cast weird shadows on the walls. Rock and roll music blared incessantly. In this way, sociology students examined how various social groups react to one another.

Actions of individuals were inspected by psychology classes. Habitual actions were experimentally explained by the use of a conditioning box. Simultaneously, with the sound of a buzzer, an electric shock was experienced.

After several shocks, the student jumped back when just the buzzer sounded.

Special vocational classes prepared students for employer-employee relationships. Thought-provoking puzzles developed the necessary characteristic of common sense while job interview practice enabled students to develop poise and confidence.

Controversial racial relationships were explored by the Human Relations Club when they invited Dr. Otha Porter, a noted Gary school administrator, to speak at an assembly.

POOR ATTENDANCE HAMPERS COUNCIL

Although marred by member apathy and disagreements about several activities, the representing minority did accomplish many worthwhile projects. Along with the usual student car registration and concession selling during lunch hours, the council sponsored a sock hop, sold student calendars, and revised the constitution. At the urging of some members, a student exchange program was initiated with Hammond Tech and Merrillville High Schools. Interrupted many times by rainy spring weather, the council finally had the football bleachers repainted in a cheerful red and white in time for graduation exercises.

CAR WASH AND BAKE SALE SUPPORT YEAR'S ACTIVITIES

Selected for their outstanding academic ability, twenty seniors added National Honor Society to their list of achievements. Its main objective was to further academic excellence among the students. A Christmas party for former NHS members, a carwash, and a coffee house for all students who achieved a place on the honor roll were held. The coffee house featured "Each and All," a folk group from Indianapolis.

At the end of the year, members took part in the induction of 66 new junior and senior members.

Junior Rotarians and Kiwanians, selected for their leadership qualities, attended weekly meetings. Representing their select organizations, these students presented a brief resume of the club's activities.

A pilgrimage from Troy, a rendezvous with the queen of Carthage, and a journey through the underworld were the happenings that highlighted the Advanced Latin class' task of translating Virgil's Aeneid. Second year classes waded through humorous stories of Roman customs while eager first year students struggled with beginning grammar.

Indiana University hosted Crown Point's Latin

Club when they traveled to the annual National Junior Classical League convention. The year-end Roman Banquet lauded retiring sponsor, Miss Swartz. Concluding the feast during which seniors Minnie Uhrhammer and Sheila Hardesty were inducted into the Order of the Golden Bow for having successfully completed four years of Latin, Miss Swartz voiced the immortal words Ave atque vale, hail and farewell!

ABOVE—Sheila Hardesty and Minnie Uhrhammer graciously kneel as Miss Katherine Swartz inducts them into the Order of the Golden Bow. LEFT—Paul Georgos backs off as Minnie Uhrhammer gives him the business about a Latin translation. FAR LEFT—Receiving her retirement gift of an antique Latin Bible, Miss Katherine Swartz thanks the club.

A new vista was opened for language enthusiasts in the form of a first-year French class. Four French novices struggled to conquer a new language.

Fourth year advanced classes, along with advanced Spanish students, visited the Chicago Art Institute and were especially interested by the French Impressions Collection.

French Club officers Leslie Westbay, president; Marcia Mount, vice-president; and Diana Han, secretary-treasurer; engineered such exciting activities as an excursion to Chicago where interested students traveled to see Marcel Marceau, French pantomime star.

Other than America's racial problems, which were of great interest to him, foreign exchange student Luiz Antonio

Gomez de la Vega from San Cristobal, Venezuela, indicated that American kids and Venezuelan kids were pretty much the same. Electronic engineering and computer science compiled Luiz's plans for college.

Crown Point's Spanish culture was enhanced, in addition to Luiz's influence, by ten-peso words, multi-colored pinatas and witty skits. Classroom knowledge was transferred to the Spanish Club as fiesta after fiesta was planned. Tasty Mexican and Spanish dishes added to the festive atmosphere. Organization of such activities were accomplished by President Pam Blanco, Vice-President Judy Fitzpatrick, Secretary Judy Hoffman, and Treasurer Roxanne Koziel.

UPDATED FEATURES STIMULATE SALES

With the combined forces of the beginning and advanced journalism classes, 31 issues of the Inklings were published.

In order to prepare the ten advanced journalism students for next year, a new program was put to the test. Each was assigned the responsibility of producing one issue of the paper with the guidance of the editor Deb Luke and the adviser Mrs. Janice Dean. This experience proved to be beneficial to the journalists, to the readers, and to the content of the newspaper.

To make the newspaper more interesting and correlating to every person in the school, the student's page was created with such articles as FEEDBACK, NEWSBRIEFS, STUDENT COUNCIL NEWS, GUIDANCE CALENDAR, and CANDID STUDENT.

These factors increased sales. Instrumental in producing quality publications, Quill and Scroll members sponsored a national current events test.

ENTHUSIASTIC EXCALIBUR STAFF CREATES NEW LOOK

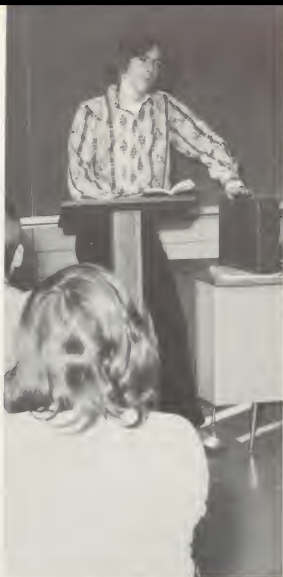

Hoping to add more information to the endless stacks of yearbooking do's and don'ts, the Excalibur staff launched the 1971-72 Crown Point High School yearbook by sending co-editor Donna Steuer, sports editor Denise Gibbs, copy editor Sheila Hardesty, and photographer Mark Hough to a two-week August workshop at Ball State University.

With the opening of school in autumn, the staff began serious work toward its goal of the best yearbook ever. The year's publication activities consisted of a hayride, advertising drives, and sales campaigns. Diligent staffers labored long hours during the day and after school to meet everpresent deadlines. Upon completion of the 1972 Excalibur, staff members collapsed with the reassurance of a job well-done.

Among the many projects undertaken by fourth-year E-English students was a simulation of the television show, "Book Beat." After many weeks of intensive research, fellow classmates listened breathlessly as two amateurs assumed roles of author and interviewer. These hour-long programs, complete with commercials, were presented on tape for later presentation.

Research was also undertaken by Junior English students in the form of term papers. Before passing the required course, each student became well acquainted with note cards, reference books, and sundry types of footnotes.

Vicariously spanning hundreds of years and thousands of miles, World Literature delved into various styles of literature ranging from the Greek play Oedipus the King to Hesse's Sidhartha.

Competing with 25 other teams, the 1971-72 Speech and Debate Club found its way into the finals of the Calumet Forensic League.

DRAMATIC SINGERS DISPLAY TALENTS

This year's choir was kept busy with rehearsals, concerts, contests, dinners, convocations, and a musical, "Fiddler on the Roof." Approximately 45 choir members devoted weeks of practice from 6:30-9 p.m. at the Board of Education Building to put on such a program.

At the NISBOVA Vocal Solo and Ensemble contest ten Crown Point students placed high enough to qualify for state competition where five firsts and five seconds were awarded.

Three of the highest ratings in performance and a second place rating of GOOD for the final rating were received at the NISBOVA Choir Contest.

TRADITION

Marriages were arranged by the matchmaker of the town. This was the tradition . . .

After three months of hard work, sweat, and late practices, the choral department felt prepared to perform the play, "Fiddler on the Roof." With the help of 125 determined students and ten adults, the play was a success.

The Chamber Singers, divided into the Swing Choir and the Madrigals, performed for many activities. The Swing Choir sang at the Ideal Ladies Tea and at a concert with the Dance band. The Madrigals received first place recognition at the state Madrigals contest.

Red T-shirts, four crowded buses, gym floors, Burger King Whoppers, and sore tummies all played a part in the Cherry Festival this summer. After invading Traverse City, the band captured second in the field show competition. The award-winning "A Kaleidoscope of Rock Sounds" consisted of a fanfare to "Aquarius," a downfield drill to "Light My Fire," precision drills to "Put Your Hand in the Hand," "Oh Happy Day," "You Made Me So Very Happy," a concert tune of "Yesterday," and the grand finale to "Ticket to Ride" and "25-6-4." The same show was performed at the NISBOVA Marching and Field Competition in October as the band earned a first division rating. Besides field shows, the band marched in a number of parades. The 4th of July, first place honors were won at Whiting and Munster. Other exhibition parades were the Firemen's Parade, Labor Day Parade, and Cherry Royale Grand. The Cadettes brought home two trophies—first place in Class B and the traveling Best of Show trophy in the Northern Indiana Pom Pon contest. Their superior performance consisted of a military routine to "Overture From Tommy," a dance routine to "You Made Me So Very Happy," and a kickline routine to "Sweet Georgia Brown."

"Soul Lady," "P. C. Wallbanger," and "We've Only Just Begun" intensified the rhythmic performance of the jazz band. Its superior blend, rhythmic accuracy, balance, and interpretation resulted in their being the first jazz band chosen to perform at the National Band Directors Convention in Chicago.

Top honors in the high school division were netted at the Collegiate Jazz Festival at Notre Dame University. During the evening performance CP played with top college bands such as MIT and Ohio State.

For the ninth straight year CPHS brought home first division ratings from NISBOVA. At South Bend Adams High they took the first place position and joined the University of Illinois Jazz Band in the evening. This summer the Jazz Band represented Indiana in the Mobile Jazz Festival.

The Lab Band, alias "the little Jazz Band," made up of mainly freshmen participated in several contests taking a superior rating at NISBOVA.

The rabble-rousing Pep Band invigorated the intensity of CPHS fans at every home game with the fans' favorite, "Sweet Georgia Brown."

Before taking to the road to gain actual driving experience, drivers' education students spent many hours in the classroom to acquaint themselves with the car and traffic laws. They also changed tires, checked the oil and water along with other maintenance chores as part of their course requirements.

Besides studying anatomy and emergency first aid techniques, health students discussed sex, visited divorce court, rapped about drugs, religion, and other social problems confronting young people today.

Student volunteers gave considerable time and effort to helping teachers in the training of handicapped children at the First Presbyterian Church. These volunteers as well as scores of other concerned members of the community turned out May 6 to walk for the Lake County Association for Retarded Children's fund-raising campaign.

EXPLORATORY TEACHING PREPARES SENIORS FOR THE FUTURE

In order to give seniors a chance to decide whether they would like teaching, the exploratory teaching course for credit was introduced. Nine senior girls participated at Timothy Ball, South Ward, and Lake Street schools in a variety of fields: French, music, art, hearing, speech, and reading.

The students first studied teaching procedures, children's characteristics, and observed classes in progress. Experience was gained through instructing groups, individuals, and classes under the supervision of the regular teachers. The students submitted debriefing reports and consulted magazines published by the State Teaching Association.

ANYTHING GOES IN FASHION

Many changes in the world were reflected in the fashions that Crown Point High School students chose to wear. The changing dress code opened the way for trends toward the comfortable and natural. Blue jeans became more and more common for both guys and girls.

Many girls stuck to old stand-by lengths, while others went wild, changing from mini to maxi to midi. Hot pants became the rage during the warm fall and spring months. In shoes, everything from knee-high boots to skimpy sandals were seen.

The Home Economics Department prepared students for establishing a home by discussing marriage and analyzing marital problems in family living class. A class in housing dealt with interior design, color scheme, and furniture arrangement. Child development and home nursing techniques were discussed in family health. While some students fashioned hot pants and body suits, others tailored ensembles and coats. Girls planned menus and studied food budgeting. The advanced classes whipped up extravagant foreign dishes and Viennese splendors.

The Future Homemakers of America invited Mrs. Jelaca and Mrs. Plumb to demonstrate the arts of strudel making and cake decorating. They also honored the tennis team with a banquet at Christmas while mothers were honored with a Valentine Tea. Sponsor Mrs. Betty White, President Bonnie Selock, Vice-President Margy Lichtle, Secretary Shirley Dockweiler, and Treasurer

Brenda Dockwiler planned and organized the activities.

Endeavoring to learn about modern day industry, electricity students formed an industry. Mass production was undertaken with everyone having a specific job.

Women's lib came into a greater perspective when Senior Chris Cartmell became the first girl ever to be enrolled in the auto mechanics course. Another senior, Lisa Kelley, made a contribution to the cause as the first girl FFA member.

An extensive program of bedding plants and cuttings was undertaken with the supervision of Vincent Rick, student greenhouse manager. After the plants became large enough, they were sold to interested students and teachers. In addition, a horticulture team comprised of five students attended the annual flower and garden show at McCormick Place.

TEAMWORK BYWORD BREEDS TWELVE NEW THESPIANS

In presenting "Death of the Old Man," "Opening Night," and "Mr. Flannery's Ocean," enthusiastic dramatists learned many aspects of drama: lighting, costume designing, makeup, setting, and directing. Many classtime hours were spent in learning proper techniques of falling, fighting, kissing, laughing, crying, and sitting. Charades and improvisations improved acting abilities by stimulating the imagination. Swaddled in diapers and contented with pacifiers, students attended a baby party portraying infants zero to three years old.

Drama Club meetings were spiced by Mrs. Jean Isaacs, theater critic of the Gary Post Tribune, who gave information on the profession of a critic. Mr. Robert Donnelly, head of the speech department at St. Joe's College, brought college dramatists who answered questions about college drama programs. Members also traveled to see "Birthday Party."

Students earning ten points backstage and onstage in two areas of at least two productions, equal to about 100 hours of diligent work, were honored as Thespians at the drama banquet. Twelve dramatists qualified: six were sophomores. Receiving a special dispensation, Scott Fulk was accepted as an honorary member.

SOCIETY SPREADS SUNSHINE WITH CHARITABLE DOINGS

The Sunshine Society made the world a brighter place by aiding indigent families, donating money to area hospitals, and sending seasonal favors to teachers.

The girls earned money for the projects by sponsoring a candy sale and a car wash. The members used proceeds to support an Argentinian orphan. The traditional Rose Dance was planned in March.

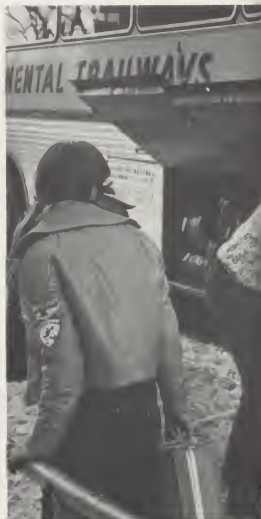

Sunshine girls and Lettermen collected clothing to send to underprivileged people in Appalachia, and sponsored the semi-formal dance in December.

Synthetic snow, chair lifts, tow ropes, lead-weight ski boots, sore cabooses, and frost-bitten faces added intensity to the ski outings to Boyne Mountain, Cannonsberg, Michigan, and The Pines. Baked goods and sparkly Christmas candles were sold by members to defray traveling expenses.

Although there was a lack of natural snow, synthetic snow sufficed, enkindling a great boom of enthusiasm from mountain-bound schussers in this unfledged club. Members attended the Ski Show where they scanned the multiplex selections of ski equipment.

VARIETY ADDED TO PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Students found new challenges in their physical education classes. Along with the customary softball, basketball, and soccer games, were new individual sports where talents were discovered in archery, juggling, golf, and judo.

Activities for advanced physical education girls included kite flying, biking, roller skating, and even wrestling. However, plans to go ice skating fell through due to warm weather.

Bavaker, a cross between basketball, hockey, soccer, and volleyball; and speedball, a mixture of football, basketball, and soccer were invented by the ingenious physical education staff.

Ambitious Lettermen were found at almost every major sports event, keeping area fans supplied with programs and ice cold Coke.

During the lull between varsity football and basketball seasons, Lettermen provided entertainment in a professional wrestling match with Dick the Bruiser and women wrestlers.

Chicago Bulls' coach Dick Motta was the guest speaker at the annual banquet honoring senior Lettermen.

The vivacity of Hoosier Hysteria was embodied in a rainy Homecoming, red wool sweaters, crammed bleachers, paint-spattered posters, fanatical pep band, delirious fans, and roof-raising cheers. Simple and rah-rah cheers appealed to the bleacher bums as they crammed into three-fourths of the bleachers, inspiring the team on to the Lake Suburban Conference Championship. Jam-packed buses and car caravans transported fidgety, uproarious fans to all away games.

With the help of Booster Club officers Pam Fultz, Patty Hawes, Minnie Urhammer, and Kathryn Simmons, organized bake sales defrayed costs of the new red sweaters purchased by Booster Club members to replace the capes. BOOSTERS, JOCKS, AND CHEERLEADERS GET IT ALL TOGETHER

BLOOD, SWEAT, & TEARS

Finally it is here.

The long, hard practices are over.

The many hours of learning,

Planning, and thinking are behind.

There is no turning back.

The lights are on. The crowd awaits.

You know you have the strength,

Courage, and stamina to win,

And win you will.

Then come the tough breaks:

The sprained ankles, the pulled

Muscles, the broken legs, the blood.

But, in every drop of blood, in

Every drop of sweat that falls from

Your body there is a part of you.

The part that says dedication.

After a loss comes the tears.

Not on the outside, but on the Inside, hidden from the public's view.

Tears of disappointment and Frustration. Yet, when the Final game is over, when the

Last piece of equipment is

Turned in, you feel it is all

Worthwhile. That is the secret

Of Crown Point's athletics.

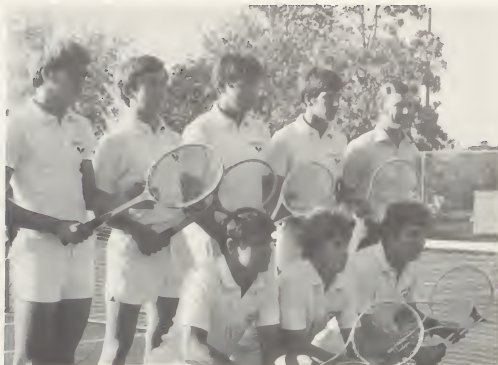

We rate high in determination,

In sportsmanship, and, best of all,

In winning.

Griffith was first to fall by the wayside as the 1971 tennis team began its long march toward the state championship. The team's only loss was handed to them early in September by a strong Lafayette Jefferson team.

River Forest, Highland, and Andean were the next martyrs to fall as the Big Red Machine rolled along. Munster and Portage were all in the line of fire,

TENNIS TEAM FIRST

The 1971 tennis team assured itself a place on the walls of CPHS by becoming the first team in the history of Crown Point High School to capture a state championship.

The first step on the road to Indianapolis was taken in Elkhart. The team, under the watchful eye of Coach Bob Sindy, fought to a tie with Elkhart for the tourney title.

A sectional championship was in sight for Bulldogs as the final match pitted second doubles team, Larry Kiefer and Dave Paupp, against first doubles team, Bob Shrader and Roger Armstrong. Victorious Shrader and Armstrong were in full swing as they headed toward regionals and a match with the team's toughest opponent, Lafayette Jefferson.

There was no stopping the Big Red Machine as it beat one opponent after another. Lafayette Jefferson found itself under the wheels, as the machine steamed on to Indianapolis and the state title.

South Bend Adams offered the stiffest opposition to our Bulldogs, but Shrader and Armstrong pulled through with a 7-6, 6-3 victory. The State tennis trophy was on its way home where it received a royal welcome from the entire student body.

1000 MILE CLUB GROWS

Starting the season with the additions of Bruce Dian, Gerald Stout, and Ken Witt, the cross-country team went on to place two members in the regional meet while one advanced to state competition. A season consisting of 9 wins and 5 losses in dual meets and 63 wins and 16 losses in large meets plus invitionals brought home 10 trophies for Coach Bob Conard's determined runners.

The team progressed to sectional competition, with Jim Kacmar finishing second and Craig Banser fourth, which qualified both for regional competition. When all scores were tallied, Griffith was on top with Crown Point sixth in a field of 21 teams.

Despite drizzly weather, Jim Kacmar again came through with a third place finish in the regional meet. This assured him a chance to vie for the State Cross Country title in Indianapolis. The highlight of the season came when Jim placed 17th in the state meet.

GRIDDERS DETERMINED DESPITE LOSSES

Hearts throbbed, throats ached, bleachers vibrated, and tempers flared as tri-captains Dan Quale, Jay Hill, and Bill Smock led the football team.

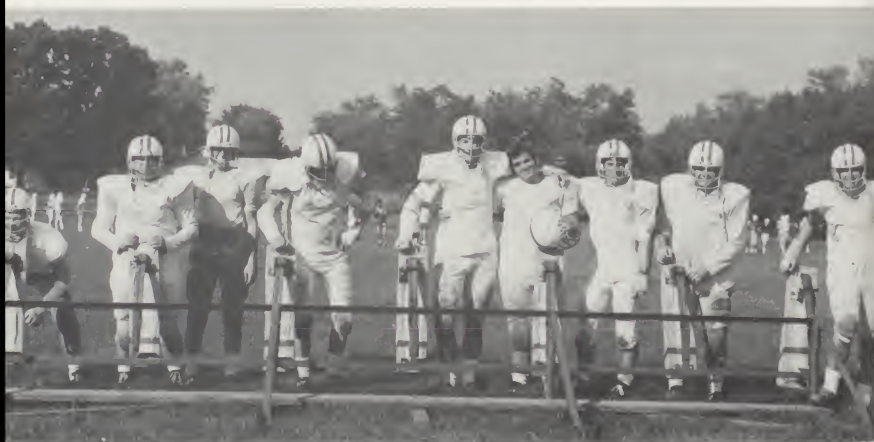

Although the team lost the first five games, it was not without scoring power. That the Bulldogs were making each opponent fight for their points was evident. Then came Homecoming and the first victory, which was against Griffith. The memories of those first five games were forgotten with this one win.

The next three games were lost, but the last game became a victory against Calumet, making the team's final season record 2-8.

Individual strength was shown as Rick Reid, senior center, claimed an honorable mention for All-State Champ and All-Conference title. Dan Quale, junior guard, and Norm Toering, junior end, also received All-Conference titles.

At the end of the season, Bill Smock, senior tackle, was voted Most Valuable Player by the team. Juniors Dan Quale and Mark Smock were chosen as co-captains for the 1972 football season.

FLEDGLING TEAM SNAGGED BY TOUGH COMPETITION

Affectionately known as the "Animals," Crown Point's wrestling team was primarily made up of sophomores. Setting out to crush all in their path, team members soon found that area conference schools offered stiff opposition. However, much more was accomplished than the 2-10 season record indicates. The challenge of tough competition added depth and determination to the squad.

At sectional time, techniques were finalized as sophomore Kent Swinehart and Senior Bill Ashabrunner were victorious over their respective opponents. Jim Marshall and Tom Palen placed second with Joe Amodeo coming in fourth. In regional competition, Jim Marshall placed fourth.

ELEVEN STRAIGHT VICTORIES HIGHLIGHT SEASON

Changing home base from Taft to Crown Point, Coach Bill Fultz sparked a young team, to a winning season. Crown Point opened the season against Horace Mann, but a disruptive crowd during that game led school officials to cancel all further games with the Gary school.

After dropping two games to East Chicago's deadly duo and one to top-ranked Michigan City, the Bulldogs prepared for the Logansport Holiday Tourney. Defeating Logansport in the first game, team members and fans returned for a loss from Kokomo.

The bulldogs gained momentum, winning eleven straight games including the conference championship against Highland before being struck down by Valparaiso.

Accompanied by frantic fans and excited broadcasters, Hoosier Hysteria hit Crown Point with full force. The Bulldogs ignited hopes for a sectional championship in their victorious tangle with Griffith's Panthers, but visions of regional competition were fleeting as the hardwooders fell to a strong Lake Central team.

All-conference honors were handed to senior forward Chris Jacobsen and senior guard Chip Parsons.

GYMNASTS ADVANCE TO STATE COMPETITION

The gymnastics season swung into action with an at-home victory against Thornwood. The gymnasts continued their winning streak but suffered from only one loss from Thornton.

The team competed in sectionals at Concord, emerging with first place honors of 157 points and qualifying seven of their men for state finals.

High hopes were dashed the day of the state meet when Gary Linder, all-around competitor, broke his leg during morning preliminaries while attempting longhorse vaulting. Crown Point disappointingly ranked fourth in the competition.

Bob Briggs won the only first place for Crown Point on the high bar; he ranked fifth on rings, and second in all-around competition. Mike Howe received third place on the sidehorse, while Bruce Beck placed ninth on the side bar. Sophomore Dennis Hammet placed ninth on rings as Dan Linder was awarded eighth place in longhorse vaulting.

GIRLS BENEFIT FROM ATHLETIC COMPETITION

Under the watchful eyes of Coach Don Kyes, the girls' track team captured four wins with just two losses.

Four girls competed in the district contest. Senior Pauline Troutwine placed in the 100-yard dash and 440 relay, and Senior Diane Fogleman placed in the 440 relay. Junior Linda Parsons placed in the 50-yard dash, the 100-yard dash, and the 440 relay, while Sophomore Debbie Shultz placed in the 440 relay. Parsons and Troutwine went on to regional finals where Parsons placed fifth.

Events such as uneven bars, balance beam and tumbling proved to be the strong points in girls' gymnastics, which was coached by Miss Linda Ruley.

In the district meet, Linda Parsons and Cathy Childers received fifth place in intermediate bars and beginning vaulting, respectively. On beginning bars, Peggy Kasch received a seventh, as did Gail Price on the beginning beam.

STICKMEN EDGE PAST OPPONENTS WITH 12-10 RECORD

With victories over Valparaiso and East Chicago Washington, the baseball team displayed some great new talent. First year head coach Richard Webb and first year junior varsity coach Hal Oppenhuus also led the team to victories over Lake Central, Highland, and Lowell.

Batting averages zoomed as talents like Ed Schiesser, Spencer Dennis, and Tom Weber went all out for victory. Calumet fell 11-8 while rematches with Highland and Lowell finished Crown Point on top. Merrillville, Calumet, and Portage also fell to the Bulldogs. The last game of the regular season proved to be decisive as Crown Point shut out Hanover Central 12-0.

In conference play the team ended with third place and in sectionals fourth place, losing to Lake Central in the Friday game.

INDIVIDUAL ACHIEVEMENT INSUFFICIENT FOR PRIME TRACK SEASON

Starting the year weakly, the track team steadily gained strength as the season's schedule began to take shape. This strength was apparent when the cindermen dominated the annual Hobart Little Five. Momentum was short-lived, however, easily evident from the team's poor showing in both conference and sectional competition.

Several track men established new records. The deadly shot put duo of Bill Smock and Mike Sertich took several first and seconds. Two-miler Craig Banzer broke record after record in his event. Terry Roberts broke both the indoor and outdoor pole vault records and came within four seconds of the all-time high hurdles record. Miler Jim Kacmar was the sole team member to go to regional competition with a first place finish for his event in the sectional meet.

LINKSMEN TEAR UP TURF IN STRUGGLE FOR TOP SPOT

Despite pre-season soggy weather, golf team members achieved several practice sessions before starting conference play. Led by seniors Bill Ashabranner and Chris Pavlides, and by Coach Malcolm Ruby, the golf team displayed great strength despite the youthfulness of the squad.

Two seniors and four juniors comprised the entire list of upperclassmen.

As sectionals drew near, Lowell, Portage, Rich East, and Lafayette all fell victim to the fast momentum that the team was creating. Lower and lower scores were seen while the golf team's confidence increased.

In sectional competition the team placed a disappointing fourth.

INDIVIDUALITY

Students—

That's what they call us.

But it's not that simple.

We are as complicated as

A 1425-piece puzzle.

We are individuals, as

Different as night and day.

We are thrown together for Nine months of a year.

We learn from necessity

That we must pull together.

Not only with our fellow

Students, but the faculty as well.

Teachers—

They, too, are individuals.

They, too, have their own interests.

Yet, all they care and help us

Because of them and us

WE RATE HIGH

SENIORS EXPRESS SPIRIT WITH ARTISTIC TALENTS

Many class competition projects were sponsored during the year in which every class was able to express its spirit to the extreme. Enthusiastic seniors spent several extracurricular hours prior to Homecoming night diligently working on their float. Although the juniors proved superior during the week in other competition,

 Homecoming night found the seniors on top with the slogan of "Barkin' up a Vic-tree."

A handful of seniors' artistic talents also helped in decorating their hall during Basketball Spirit Week. Movies and TV titles adorned the hall as the class added another victory to its many outstanding achievements.

From one of the largest classes in Crown Point High School's history, which boasted 394 seniors, three valedictorians and one salutatorian emerged. At the head of the class were Mike Savich, Mike Toman, and Judy Fitzpatrick. Pam Blanco received one "B" during her four years in school, making her second in the class.

Senior girls participated in Career Advancement Day. The girls spent a day working with a person experienced in the field of their choice. They ended their day at a dinner with their sponsors, the Crown Point Business and Professional Women's Club.

The Class of '72 participated in the first Senior Day, in which students took over key positions of faculty and administration. A worthwhile experience, the precedent-setting seniors saw it as a continuing activity for future classes.

ABOVE—Tumbling instructor Bill Childers patiently shows a student how to land on the trampoline.

Slowly the remaining seconds ticked away as seniors sweated over the last final exam of their high school days. They had been counting, waiting, watching.

It was time. The eleven o'clock bell finally shrieked and instantly a murmur rose in the halls.

Seniors sped to their lockers for the last time and out to the annual parade.

Slogans such as "72 All the Way" or "Just Made It" were seen on the cars loaded to the brim with happy seniors hanging out the windows as the parade wound its way through the busy streets of Crown Point. A final goodbye was said by joyous seniors when the parade turned into the front semicircle drive of the high school.

Senior Week 1972 had begun.

A mass exodus was made from the town as upperclassmen prepared to enjoy their new freedom, and underclassmen enviously looked on. Outings were planned for practically every day of the final week before graduation. Some seniors found themselves in state parks while others traveled to Indianapolis for the annual Memorial Day Race. Still others ventured farther into the outside world such as Arizona or Maine. Many seniors found time to frequent the newly-opened pools and beaches for a little sun-fun.

With the evenings came parties, as friends converged on each others' homes for the last time as high school students. Old memories were recalled and laughed over while future plans were discussed and sometimes formulated. But, no matter how far or near they roamed, all members of the Class of 1972 returned on the following Friday for one of the most important events in a lifetime, graduation.

Votes taken in fall roll rooms found that the Class of '72 had definite ideas about graduation. One decision moved the annual commencement exercises to the football field.

The hot and humid conditions that exist in the gym during June was the main reason for the change.

Abolishment of the traditional red and white caps and gowns was also considered, but the majority of seniors voted against it.

After the excitement of the commencement exercises and open houses, many seniors began prepar-

In memory of . . .
Gary Hagle
1954-1971

Using team strategy Junior Class Officers Evan Keene (president), Leslie Westbay (secretary), Paul Georgas (treasurer), John Patz (vice-president), illustrate how to win.

Hungry football fans were provided with refreshments from the junior concession stand headed by Mr. Craig Myers. The stand, supplemented by class dues, was the major source of income for the Class of '73, whose main burden was to foot the bill for the May Junior-Senior Prom.

In the annual GAA powerpuff football game the Junior women were defeated 6-0. This defeat failed to dampen Homecoming spirits, however, as the juniors came out on top as the 1971 Homecoming Spirit Week winners.

Amidst all the fun, the ever-present black clouds of the National Merit, PSAT, and the spring SAT tests hung over the class of 1973.

JUNIORS AWAIT RESULTS OF PSAT

Fulfilling the responsibility of manager for the wrestling team, Sue Naylor checks an Chip Robertson's score.

Bewildered sophomores became professionals at high school life during the year. Students slowly but surely became familiar with their surroundings as they tramped through the halls of CPHS.

One of the first tasks that confronted the 498 members of the Class of '74 was the selection of class officers and 23 Student Council members.

Class rings were also chosen.

Examinations of all types also awaited the unsuspecting sophomores.

Speech and hearing ability, as well as academic achievement, were tested by Mr. Young, speech and hearing therapist, and the counselors.

College-minded sophomores also endeavored to undertake the National Educational Development Tests.

CLASS OF '74 FACES COMPLICATIONS WITH PERSEVERANCE

In memory of . . .

Todd Cunningham	1956-1971
Mario d'Ambrosio	1956-1971
Collette Genge	1955-1972
Debbie Harris	1956-1972

1 MR. HARRY C. ALLISON completed his first year as athletic director. He taught business math and has received B.S. and M.A. degrees. He enjoys golf in his spare time.

2 MR. PETE BELLESSIS taught psychology, sociology, and U.S. history. He is a graduate of IU with B.S. and M.S. degrees.

3 Experiencing his first year as an instructor in the industrial arts department, MR. DANIEL BIZIK holds a B.S. degree in industrial education supervision and management.

4 Graduating with a B.S. degree in industrial education, MR. DON BOESEL taught drafting and woodworking. Skiing is his favorite hobby.

5 MRS. JAN BOESEL, skiing enthusiast, is interested in church youth work. She graduated with an A.B. degree and taught English.

6 MR. CHARLES BOWMAN, sponsor of the Biology Club, taught biology with an M.A. degree in science from BSU.

7 Foreign languages and electronics fascinate MISS JUNE CALEN, sponsor and teacher of Spanish.

8 MR. JERRY A. CARAVANA sponsored the Student Council and served as the athletic business manager. He holds B.S. and M.A. degrees from BSU. He taught subjects in the business curriculum and enjoys golf as his hobby.

9 Instructing young musicians is a full-time job for MR. ALBERT CASTRONOVO, director of CP's big band sounds. Sponsor of the Cadette and Color Guard Corps, he still finds time to enjoy bowling, tennis, and chess. He holds degrees from Vandercook College of Music and ISU.

10 MRS. KATHERINE COFFMAN, sponsor of Le Cercle Francois, educated students in French. She graduated from the University of Wisconsin.

11 With a B.A. degree from PU, MRS. KATHLEEN CONARD taught business math and French.

12 Chemistry teacher MR. ROBERT CONARD was also the assistant track coach and cross country coach. He carries a B.S. and M.A.T. from IU.

EDUCATORS WORK TO INFLUENCE POSTERITY

They were called teachers, educators, instructors, and various other names, but whatever one chose to call them didn't erase the fact that they were sixty-seven individuals. They were ordinary people with unique feelings.

They were paid to shape and mold their students' minds, a task which was not easy considering that they were responsible for the future of the town, the country, and the world. They met this challenge with dedication, their only reward being the light of understanding in a student's eyes.

We had new teachers enter the hallowed halls of Crown Point High School to begin careers that could last a lifetime; others brought their work to an end. After dedicating a combined total of 72 years to the teaching profession, Miss Katherine Swartz and Mrs. Ruth Crowell retired.

1 Collecting antiques and traveling keep MRS. RUTH CROWELL busy when school is out. She teaches Junior English with a B.S. degree.

2 MR. LEON DEAN's major subject is agriculture with B.S. and M.S. degrees from PU. He is the sponsor of FFA.

ADMINISTRATORS WORK FOR BETTER SCHOOLS

Perplexities which faced the Crown Point Community School Corporation included a limited budget, a possible teachers' strike in January, and transportation difficulties. These obstacles were handled with the aid of veteran educator Robert J. Brannock, superintendent.

All things facing the school board were not bad, however. Guidance counselors, together with Principal Roger R. Childress and Assistant Superintendent Ray Rogers, put into effect a new system of instructional improvement. Schedule changes included seniors being able to drop unnecessary class periods. Crown Point High School gained a work-study coordinator, shifted secretarial personnel, and planned several ways to alleviate crowding.

RIGHT—Robert Brannock, superintendent, wearily ponders the matter of the 1972 budget plan.
BELOW—Going over one of his first jobs of the day, Assistant Principal Paul Georgos works on morning announcements.

LEFT—Captured before attending a board meeting is Assistant Superintendent Ray Rogers. BELOW—Mr. George Antal examines recent reports on building maintenance in the nine schools in the corporation.

ABOVE—At the sometimes tedious monthly meetings, the school board, Glenn Bothwell, Charles Aylesworth, Harold Wheeler, Glenn Cooper, and William Smead, discusses the most prominent issues and tries finding answers. LEFT—Answering a student's inquiry on the latest scheduling developments is Principal Roger Childress.

BELOW—Talking about how to handle the problems of students, Mrs. Cornelio Wood and Mr. Thomas Stuart realize that common sense must be used in guidance.

COUNSELORS, SECRETARIES ASSIST STUDENTS

LEFT—Discussing junior SAT scores, Mrs. Helen Palmer and Mr. Wallace Webb compare percentiles of various students. BELOW—Checking the list of absences for the day is Mrs. Smelia Kaims and Mrs. Frances Kaiser.

ABOVE—MRS. Ethel Childers and Mrs. Ruth Hasking relax at noon hour to discuss Mrs. Childers' new job as treasurer.

SPECIALISTS SOLVE PROBLEMS

Within our school is a stream of people that we all depend on from day to day. They are the people who soothe our growling stomachs or help us find material for an important project. We may not call upon them every day, but they are always there nevertheless.

A lisp corrected, a shot given, the right book found—all these things could someday have special bearing on your life.

RIGHT—Serving the school as nurse, Mrs. Rita McFadden sees to it that seniors, athletes, and new students take their tuberculosis tests. BELOW—Studying the various bulletins coming into the library, Miss Ester Raney and Mrs. Ardyce Madsen strive to make the library more efficient.

ABOVE—Ending her first year as bookstore manager, Mrs. Jackie Webb is amazed at how many books go in and out of the bookstore. RIGHT—Mr. John Shettles, audio-visual director, diligently fixes a broken projector.

BELOW—Speech therapist Mr. Alan Young takes time from reviewing case studies to answer questions of curious students. BOTTOM—As 11:00 rolls around, Mrs. Noel Sprout, Mrs. Douglas Quale, Mrs. Billy Higgins, Mrs. Cassel Kutzler, Mrs. Stanley Nisovich, and Mrs. William Mager busily prepare for the crowds.

DOUGH POWER

POLY

We find ourselves with money;
Money to use as we like.
This money gives us tremendous Power. Power to show our Parents and friends that we can
Make wise investments.
Power to sway minds toward
Us. They watch us, try to Anticipate our needs, our wants.
We rate high with them because
We have what it takes to put Them on top.

PRESSING DEADLINES OCCUPY LIMITED STAFF

It begins with an idea,
an individualized brainstorm.
Then take one pressing deadline,
an unfinished page, and 27 journalists.
Add a carton of Coke and one bag of humor. . . .
reflections of the Excalibur Staff.

Examine our accomplishments.

Have we made you smile?

Flipping through these pages,
picture yourself an experience older.

Through this combination of student talent. . . .

may you relive the moment
and imprint the memory.

ABOVE—Co-Editor Donna Steuer introduces Advertising Manager Rose Fathke to receive her award at the Publications Banquet. LEFT—Business Manager Daryl Hamm enters income in her budget book.

WE CAME TOGETHER

At the end of August.

We were nobodies . . .

We were numbers, seat fillers.

We soon found what work was all about.

We also found what life was all about.

We were determined to bring credit to Ourselves and to our school.

When the end of May came we realized

That finally it was over.

We would go our separate ways or

We would come back next year

Ready to begin anew.

Ready to grasp a new idea.

RIGHT—We put our own stamp of individuality on everything we touch. BELOW RIGHT—Cascading rain on a windowpane gives us a new perspective. BELOW—Exhausted and discouraged, Terry Dillner contemplates his loss.

When we look back on 1972

In time to come,
We will realize that we gave
Crown Point High personality.
We made it part of ourselves.
We shaped and molded it to
Fit our time and our lives.
Because of us, it rates high
On the graph of success.
1972 reflected many feelings at Crown Point High. Feelings of Depression
Ecstasy
Loneliness

Through it all, we managed
To rate high
... on ideas
... on love
... on life.
